

School of Historical Studies
Friday Seminar Series
Semester 2, 2009

Seminars take place at 12 noon (except where indicated*) in the School of Historical Studies Staff Room (W614, Menzies Building).

24 July	SHS meeting
31 July	'Religious Identities and the Meaning of Things in Eighteenth-Century Paris' David Garrioch
07 August	'Not "Sisters in Suits"? The Political Practice of the Australian National Council of Women during the Menzies Era, 1949–1965' Marian Quartly and Judith Smart, Principal Fellow, School of Historical Studies, University of Melbourne and Adjunct Professor, Global Studies, Social Science &amp; Planning, RMIT University
14 August	Special Monash Launch of Drawing the Line: Using Cartoons as Historical Evidence (Clayton: Monash University ePress, 2009), edited by Richard Scully and Marian Quartly To be launched by Marnie Hughes-Warrington, currently Associate-Professor, Department of Modern History, Politics, International Relations, &amp; Security and Associate Dean in the Faculty of Arts, both at Macquarie University, and incoming Professor and Pro Vice-Chancellor (Learning &amp; Teaching), Monash University
21 August	SHS meeting
28 August	'Rights, Feminism, Nation' Ann Genovese, Lecturer, Melbourne Law School, University of Melbourne
04 September	'Peasants on the move. Rural Communities in Renaissance Tuscany' Cecilia Hewlett
11 September	(Title TBA) Lyndal Roper, Professor of Early Modern History, Balliol College, University of Oxford
18 September	'Egypt and the Levant in the Early Bronze Age. New Research and Perspectives' Christian Knoblauch
25 September	SHS meeting
28 September – 2 October	MID-SEMESTER BREAK
09 October	'Historical Thinking in Higher Education' Professor Marnie Hughes-Warrington, Professor and Pro Vice-Chancellor, (Learning &amp; Teaching), Monash University
16 October	'From Warehouse to your House: Reinventing Melbourne's Inner City c. 1970 to Now' Seamus O'Hanlon
23 October	SHS meeting