FIND OUT THE STRUCTURE OF YOUR COURSE

You will find a course plan included in this enrolment package. This provides information on the structure of your course. It is a good idea to keep and refer to this plan so you can keep an eye on your course progression and ensure that you complete all your degree requirements.

The Undergraduate Handbook also provides information on the degree regulations, areas of study and other important information and this can be found at www.monash.edu.au/pubs/handbooks

Do you want to study full-time or part-time?

The normal full-time load for most courses is four six-point units in each semester for a student in Arts. For example: 24 points per semester (0.500 Equivalent Full-time Student Load or EFTSL), or 48 points (1 EFTSL) for the whole year. Most undergraduate units are worth 6 points (0.125 EFTSL).

If you study on a part-time basis you must remember that you will not be eligible for Centrelink payments. To be eligible for payments you must undertake a minimum of 18 points or more during each semester (0.375 EFTSL). You should also keep in mind that you must complete a single degree within 8 years, irrespective of any approved time off you may take during the course of your studies (the standard maximum completion time for double degrees is 10 years).

Which units do you want to study?

Before you attempt to enrol via the Web Enrolment System (WES) you need to decide what you'd like to study. Think about what you're good at, what you enjoy doing and what your career goals are.

Undergraduate enrolment requires that you decide on which disciplines (areas of study) you are interested in and which individual units within those disciplines/areas you want to enrol in. There are a number of different disciplines to choose from, depending on your course structure.

You should also consult the Arts Areas of Study in the Undergraduate handbook to determine what majors and minors are available. This will give you an idea of what you can specialise in during your degree.

You can find out information about each unit and when it is offered by accessing the Monash Handbook on the web at www.monash.edu.au/pubs/handbooks. Each unit code is made up of three letters and four numbers: the letters are ATS (for Arts) and the first number indicates year level, e.g. ATS1251 is a first year level unit in Arts.

Credit for Previous Tertiary Studies

If you believe you are eligible for credit on the basis of previous tertiary studies (e.g. enhancement studies or studies at another university or TAFE), your credit will be assessed by a student services officer on Enrolment Day.

Units completed at other Australian tertiary institutions will normally be given credit (either general or specific), but there are limits. Before Enrolment Day consider the units you wish to study. Usually, if you have successfully completed a full year's study of first year units in one or more disciplines at another university, you will be eligible to enrol in second year units in those disciplines.

For information on the Arts credit policies and procedures please visit:

www.arts.monash.edu.au/current/undergraduate/credit01.php

To be granted credit you MUST bring with you to enrolment day:

- Complete Credit Application Form which can be downloaded from <http://www.adm.monash.edu.au/service-centre/forms/credit.pdf>
- Details of any units you have completed, (e.g. course outline or handbook entry with details of assessment)
- Certified copies of your results.

You cannot receive credit, nor can you proceed to higher level units, without this documentation.

HOW DO I FIND OUT ABOUT MY TIMETABLE?

How do I find out what my timetable is?

University study is different to secondary education. For each unit that you choose you will have to attend a lecture and a tutorial (this may also be referred to as a seminar).

To view the Monash timetable you need to go to the web at:

www.arts.monash.edu.au/current/undergraduate/timetable.php

How do I sign up for tutorials?

Allocate+

You will sign up for all Arts tutorials using the on-line Allocate + system. The Allocate+ system allows you to select a preference for a particular time-slot for tutorials for the unit(s) that you are enrolled in.

To register your timetable preferences refer to How to enrol (after enrolment) for further information.

www.monash.edu.au/enrolments/first-time/domestic/after-enrolment.html

YOU CAN CHANGE YOUR UNITS AFTER YOU'VE ENROLLED!

You can change your units after enrolling on WES but always keep in mind the overall course structure of the course. If you change your mind about one or more of your units, it is possible to discontinue and/or replace them with other units up until the end of the second week of semester (on-campus units only) without penalty, either via WES or in person at the Arts School Office.

Missing certain deadlines means you will have to pay for a unit(s) regardless of whether you completed the required assessment or stopped attending classes. All important deadline dates are listed in the Principal Dates section of the Monash Website (www.adm.monash.edu.au/execserv/about/principal-dates/index.html), or ask at the Arts Office on your home campus (www.arts.monash.edu.au/contact-us/index.html).
